Milan studio Andrea Auletta Interiors will soon officially unveil its design of the new Il Tornabuoni hotel in Florence. Slated for an October 2020 opening, the 63-room hotel pays homage to the city with framed views of the nearby Ponte Vecchio and the Arno river.

Leather seating will populate the ground floor, which will be anchored by an array of gray and beige tones that reference nature while also promoting comfort. Heraldic green curtains will also instill a sense of elegance in the space.

Each floor will be distinguish by a different color palette, including orange, mustard, and gray. In addition to a café and champagne bar and the Il Magnifico bistro on the ground floor, the fourth-floor Lucie Gourmet restaurant is attached to a formal terrace and embraces a palette of pink and peacock-inspired hues to evoke a convivial flair.
